Install Photoshop CS6 & Elements 11 Installing Photoshop and Photoshop Elements 11 on your PC can be somewhat tricky, especially if you use a “Modified” version of Windows operating system, like Windows 8.1. MacPaw’s softwares are designed for the Mac OS, so we will give you step-by-step instructions to install the latest version of Photoshop CS6 or Photoshop Elements 11 on Windows 8.1, 10 or 8. After you download the complete file containing both Windows installer and MacPaw packages, you’ll be asked to download other optional components (as shown in the picture above). We do not recommend you to download them because we already have them included in the softwares, but if you are curious, you can download them too. After you complete the download and install of all components from the Windows and MacPaw packages, you have to restart your PC to complete the installation process. After that, you can launch the Programs and Features tool in the Control Panel to check if Photoshop or Photoshop Elements are running properly. MacPaw is a developer that creates softwares for free. They are very user-friendly and helpful, so they provide detailed instructions for the installation process of their softwares. After you’ve installed Photoshop CS6 or Photoshop Elements 11, you can launch them from the Apps folder. So, if you’re using Windows 10, you can launch them directly from the desktop. If you’re using Windows 8.1, you can run the Photoshop installer from the Desktop screen. Now that you’ve installed the software on your PC, you can start using Photoshop elements to create memes, edit photos, make GIFs, render logos, do colorful emojis and create beautiful photo collages. File management This is a Photoshop Elements, so you’re going to love it. With the PSE11, you have the capacity to work with large images easily. While most desktop graphic editors like Photoshop and Illustrator are all about taming images and modifying them to perfection, the

Photoshop Elements doesn't have this aspect, but it provides you an amazing photo editing tool in a more user-friendly way. When you launch Photoshop Elements, you can choose an image file or a camera card that you want to open and edit. The same thing happens in Photoshop 05a79cecff

Breakfast on the back deck My husband and I were on a sailing trip in the Netherlands last weekend and while cruising the North Sea, managed to do breakfast and the afternoon snack on the back deck. What makes this memorable for us is that these were the only breakfasts we had for the entire time we were cruising. And we really enjoyed it. This whole event started the evening before. We were on board a yacht and for some reason we ended up getting a sun bed (we were in our swim shorts) in the bottom of the yacht. I know that sounds stupid, but we didn't really notice it. We just got in our swimsuits and climbed up the anchor chain to the top deck to sun bathe. All this time we were looking at the sea and the horizon. We were both focused on the view, sometimes only thinking about where we are and where we should go next. I wish this moment could last longer so we could enjoy every moment of it. But this morning we had to get out of this sun bed, which is on the bottom deck right next to the salon where breakfast and breakfast table are located. I got dressed and went down to the salon where I found some fruits and a pot of coffee waiting for me. As I was about to sit down, I couldn't help but see what was going on on the other deck. The side deck was covered with fruits, coffee, milk and juice. I think they had prepared a typical Dutch breakfast for us that morning and had done it on the back deck. Breakfast I had breakfast while sitting on my sun bed, with my coffee cup on my knees so that I could take better pictures. This whole breakfast was served by a couple of Dutch kids who ran up and down between the deck and the salon carrying trays of food with them. I ate three sandwiches with some smoked salmon (as you can see in my first image). I knew that we were in a situation where we could not order what we want to eat, so I ate what was on the table. (I tried to eat every single sandwich, but my husband ate so much that I had to make sure I have eaten all I could.) After the main course (at this time the fruit) we got some cheese and raisin bread. (Which I already wrote about in my post about the Dutch bread) After breakfast we took some pictures of the deck and the ocean and of course s

Q: Model answer not being submitted using flask-mongoengine I'm trying to attach the answer of the user to the question, and my code seems to be working. But in the logs of flask, it seems that flask is telling me that my response is not a JSON. So it is something different. When the user clicks "Post" I'm calling "Post" controller. @bind_session @validate_required_keys @validate_reply_is_json def Post(question_id, post_data, reply_data=None): if reply_data is None: return Post.insert(question_id, post_data) p = Post.objects.update(question_id=question_id, post_data=post_data, reply_data=reply_data) if p: return p else: return Response(status=500) Post.object.answer is a mongoengine document. I tried to use jsonify to return the response, but I received an error telling me that I needed to use stringify. So now the response is like this: {"_id": ObjectId("55e39f2be968f2be15983cd8")} The part of the question that I'm using to attach the answer is here: {"answer": {"$id": ObjectId("55e39f2be968f2be15983cd8")}} A: Just for completeness... To make it work, you should serialize the response to JSON string. from flask import jsonify @bind_session @validate_required_keys @validate_reply_is_json def Post(question_id, post_data, reply_data=None): if reply_data is None: return Post.insert(question_
